This document distinguishes live assets, verified development milestones, active development, partial verification, and planned capabilities. It does not promise profit, guaranteed product releases, or universal availability.

Executive Summary

GGIRL Technologies LLC is a New Hampshire technology company founded by Antonio Maben and building the Velvet ecosystem. Velvet is designed as one connected intelligence and operating ecosystem rather than a collection of unrelated products.

Good Girl Coin ($GGIRL) is a live Solana digital asset connected to this evolving ecosystem. The token exists today. Broader ecosystem utility varies by product and development stage and must not be described as universally available.

Company and Ecosystem Architecture

GGIRL Technologies LLC is the company. Velvet is the connected ecosystem. Velvet Wayz, Velvet Room, Velvet Eye, Velvet Brain, Velvet Line, Velvet Wallet, Velvet Pay, Velvet Link, and Velvet Radio are specialized surfaces or layers within that ecosystem.

Velvet is not inside the apps. The apps are inside Velvet.

Current Public Status

Good Girl Coin ($GGIRL)	Live Solana digital asset. Broader utility is in development, partially implemented, or planned depending on the feature.
Velvet Wayz	Active proof of concept with live-proven navigation components. Testing and validation continue.
Velvet Room	Multi-mode social, community, creator, relationship, and professional platform in active development with strong privacy controls.
Velvet Eye	User-facing AI presence and co-pilot in development with partial verification.
Velvet Brain	Deeper intelligence, context, memory, orchestration, permissions, and decision architecture in development with partial verification.
Velvet Line	Communication and calling layer in development and partially implemented. The complete public calling product is not launched.
Velvet Wallet and Velvet Pay	Planned and in development. They are not publicly available.
Velvet Link and Velvet Radio	Planned products. Scope, release timing, and final economics remain subject to development and approval.

Design Principles

- Human-centered technology: AI should work for people rather than replace them.
- Privacy controls and stronger user authority over identity and data.
- Consent-based memory and human confirmation for sensitive actions.
- Non-custodial ownership as a design goal where supported.
- Creator control over access, pricing, audience relationships, and self-monetization.
- Milestone-based development with status-qualified public claims.

How We Build

The company uses incremental engineering, controlled testing, regression checks, rollback protection, and documented milestones. A server-live result is not automatically described as a finished public product. Device validation, user experience, safety, privacy, and reliability remain separate gates.

Roadmap Without Artificial Deadlines

The roadmap is organized around verified milestones rather than invented release dates: stabilize core systems, validate product experiences, connect the ecosystem carefully, strengthen privacy and safety controls, and expand public access only when the relevant product is ready.

Important Limitations and Risk Language

Velvet products are in active development. Features and availability vary by product and stage. Plans may change.

$GGIRL must not be promoted as an investment. No profit, appreciation, income, or guaranteed return is promised. Digital assets are volatile and may lose value. Moonshot is an external platform that GGIRL Technologies does not control.
